State Selfies: A Picture of Peer Services

Reported by Peers

Doors to Wellbeing, The National Consumer Technical Assistance Center of The Copeland Center for Wellness and Recovery, launched a national survey for peers to tell us about resources in their own communities that include peer-run agencies and peer support services. When we sent out a survey to collect entries for the “Peer Album”, we received an overwhelming response of over 1200 entries. After editing and combining duplicate entries, we have prepared the first draft of the Peer Album highlighting nearly 600 organizations throughout the USA. This Peer Album is a “live” directory, meaning that updates are scheduled to occur bi-monthly as new programs and organizations are established and current organization’s contact information and program services change.

In order to provide us with updates; click on the links at the bottom of any page. One link is for new submissions and the other is for corrections, updates or questions about current entries.

If your entry has not made this first draft, we encourage you to re-submit. Some reasons submissions may not have been included in this first draft are as follows: typos on web addresses that would not connect to a working website, not enough organizational contact information, duplicate entries, programs/agencies that could not be verified, etc. As stated – we really encourage you to resubmit to help us make this a thorough directory capturing the extensive amount of peer programming that is happening all throughout our Country.

This is YOUR directory. We want it to speak to you and your colleagues. We encourage you to use it, add to it, correct it and offer suggestions on everything from expansion to design. Take some time to look through what we’re calling the Peer Album, and let us know what you think. We look forward to hearing your ideas, projects and the many models of existing peer programming.

Thank you,

Doors to Wellbeing NTAC
